

3,652 Miles from Long Beach, CA to Provincetown, MA

Aprylle Gilbert's Coast to Coast Run for Disadvantaged Kids

From California to Colorado in 36 days!

This extreme-endurance runner from the San Francisco Bay area is 1010 miles into her 3,652 mile coast to coast charity run from Long Beach, CA to Provincetown, MA on Route 6.

Coast-to-Coast for Kids

Press Release: June 17, 2015

Colorado - Nevada Border –On April 28, Gilbert left San Jose, running south to Long Beach. On May 11, she turned east on Route 6. Today after 1351 miles (1010 miles on Route 6) through rain storms, baking heat, black flies, and blisters, Aprylle Gilbert reached the Colorado border. She has 2,642 miles ahead of her with the Rockies looming on the horizon. During the Colorado portion of the run, she will reach the task is the first of its kind highest point on Route 6 – Loveland Pass (elevation: 11,991). Although Joe Hurley proceeded her by walking the Route, Gilbert is the first person known to take on the task of running the Route 6 from coast to coast.

Gilbert, an extreme-distance runner, is an author and one of the top folk-rock musicians in the Bay Area. She began this run as a way to help Catholic Charities Washington United Youth Center in Santa Clara County, CA improve their after-school programs for underserved kids. This vision has blossomed into a program to foster community activism across the nation by welcoming like-minded athletes to run with her for part of the way to raise money for local charities.
